Our attorneys and guest speakers, including a former Office of Inspector General attorney, will cover what you need to know about today's fast-moving regulatory landscape and recent litigation trends. We'll also hear directly from health care leaders on how they're approaching growth and strategy, share updates on employment law developments and break down recent executive orders affecting the health care industry.

As always, we're keeping a close eye on new developments and will adjust our content to make sure you leave with timely and practical takeaways.
