KANSAS CITY, MO (March 3, 2025) — Lathrop GPM proudly announces that the Kansas City Business Journal has recognized Kathleen Fisher Enyeart in its 20 to Know in the Legal Industry list. This distinction highlights emerging leaders who are making an impact in the Kansas City legal community.

Enyeart, Counsel in Lathrop GPM's Litigation practice, is a skilled litigator and former in-house attorney. She advises corporations on high-stakes internal, civil and criminal investigations at the state and federal levels. She has worked across industries, including transportation, construction, education and religious organizations. In white-collar and regulatory matters, she represents businesses, owners and executives, including physicians, attorneys, dentists, accountants and other professionals. She has a background as a prosecutor and white-collar defense attorney and helps clients navigate complex risks while protecting their integrity and business objectives.

"I am honored to be recognized by the Kansas City Business Journal alongside such outstanding rising legal professionals," said Enyeart. "Our clients rely on us for critical legal guidance, and I take pride in earning their trust through thoughtful counsel informed by my years as an in-house attorney. It is a privilege to be part of Lathrop GPM's legacy of exceptional client service."

Enyeart regularly advises clients on government investigations and serious internal allegations. In healthcare litigation, she represents clients in False Claims Act cases, professional disciplinary proceedings and disputes involving the Stark Law and Anti-Kickback Statute.

The Kansas City Business Journal covers local business news in Kansas City, Missouri. The publication's annual "20 to Know" series features up-and-coming professionals leading the way in various industries.
