Social Media Prevails in New Supreme Court Precedent

06/28/2024 | less than a minute

HC Shareholder and Appellate Practice Chair Allonn Levy recently wrote an article for The Social Media Monthly Magazine on the Supreme Courts rulings affecting social media and other Internet content providers, in NetChoice v. Paxton and Moody v. NetChoice.

In the article, Allonn writes, “on the last day of its term, the High Court handed down one of its most widely anticipated rulings in the consolidated case of NetChoice v. Paxton and Moody v. NetChoice. While the ruling technically reversed both lower court cases, a broad majority of justices endorsed the view that social media companies enjoy broad First Amendment rights to control the moderation of their platforms.”
