

Lathrop GPM opened its first Central Valley office in Sacramento in May 2025 following its combination with the Silicon Valley-based Hopkins Carley law firm in October 2024. The Sacramento office is the firm's fourth location in California and one of 14 offices nationally across eight states and Washington, D.C.

Clients in the Sacramento area will have access to Lathrop GPM's national platform and highly experienced attorneys across practices such as commercial real estate, litigation, private client services, financial institutions, agriculture and water rights, and health care. Local businesses also benefit from the Sacramento team's deep experience advising on the array of issues related to manufactured housing communities, from operations management to fair housing requirements.
