Doug Rutherford is a part-time of counsel attorney with Lathrop GPM who also is a partner of Rutherford & Bechtold LLC, Minneapolis, Minnesota. He serves firm clients on matters designated by mutual agreement of the two firms, with the consent of each affected client.

Doug Rutherford founded Rutherford & Bechtold LLP along with Teresa Bechtold in December, 2009. He is engaged in complex lending, structured finance/securitization, derivatives and other areas of practice relating to the treasury function. Doug has over 25 years of structured finance experience, representing commercial and investment banks, borrowers, mutual funds, hedge funds, pension trust advisors, finance and leasing companies, insurance companies and issuers. Before founding R&B, he co-managed the structured finance and derivatives practices at Morgan, Lewis & Bockius LLP and, before that, at Faegre & Benson LLP. Prior to joining Faegre, he served as head of Mayer Brown's London-based European securitization team and had previously practiced in that firm's Chicago, Washington and Tokyo offices.

Some of his engagements of recent years have included:

- More than $25 billion of bank financings representing agents, syndicate members and borrowers
- On behalf of an issuer, a $200 million medium-term note offering with AAA(sf) and A/A3(sf) rated tranches.

- On behalf of a different portable-alpha fund advised by the same manager, a new ISDA Master Agreement and related documentation for an $75 million notional amount total return swap related to a proprietary fixed-income index. The collateral was the fund's membership interests in an underlying registered investment company.

We negotiated with the customer's agent bank and its counsel to comply with and release collateral from the customer's $1 billion syndicated credit agreement.

In connection with those clients we have been negotiating ISDA Master Agreements, related amendments, trades, and collateral arrangements with most major swap dealers.
