Gray Plant Mooty is pleased to sponsor the next Corporate Roundtable event for the Japan America Society of Minnesota. This event brings together local and visiting speakers from the corporate world, providing an opportunity for them to share their experience and insight about the opportunities and challenges of doing business in Japan. From the JASM's website:

July's Corporate Roundtable event will feature Rob Owen, who leads the Environmental Business Segment for PaR Systems and is responsible for worldwide delivery of PaR's custom equipment projects in nuclear and other hazardous environments. His responsibilities currently include the sale and delivery of major equipment design and supply projects to clean-up efforts at nuclear sites such as Hanford, Fukushima and Chernobyl as well as remotely operated process equipment in the US, UK and Japan. Rob has worked in the nuclear field for over 30 years. His career has included working at commercial nuclear and fossil power plants, piping manufacturing, litigation and scheduling support and consulting engineering. For the last 16 years, Rob has been responsible for the delivery of custom, radiation tolerant robotic handling equipment, custom process equipment and cranes.

For more information on the Corporate Roundtable, including details on registering for the event, visit the JASM's website.
