Risk? Or Opportunity? Nonprofits encounter and manage risk all the time. As they consider ways to advance their missions in a changing world, how do they turn those risks into opportunities? And how do they embrace risk-taking and remain responsible stewards of their charitable assets?

This panel includes three nonprofit professionals whose daily work involves identifying, managing and even embracing risk. They will share their perspectives and experiences at each stage of the risk life cycle, from identifying and preparing, to managing risk, and responding when risk becomes reality.
