

Chicago Bar Association Record Quotes Partner Richard P. Beem on Use of Attorney-Client Privilege in Willful Infringement Case

March 30, 2004

Chicago Bar Association Record

Partner and patent litigator Richard Beem was quoted in an article published by the Chicago Bar Association Record on March 30, 2004.

"If you step into a patent infringement suit, you will be entering into an upside down different world with respect to the attorney-client and work product privileges. Practitioners need to understand how these privileges are handled in the patent infringement context."