

Gray Plant Mooty Adds Marya Robben to Trust, Estate & Charitable Planning Group

June 1, 2017

MINNEAPOLIS (June 1, 2017) — Gray Plant Mooty is pleased to announce that attorney Marya Robben has joined its Trust, Estate & Charitable Planning Practice Group, practicing in the firm's Minneapolis office.

"Marya is a highly accomplished practitioner in the field of estate planning, and she will be a great fit with the skilled attorneys in our group," said Ann Burns, chair of Gray Plant Mooty's Trust, Estate & Charitable Planning Practice Group. "With Marya's deep knowledge and hands-on approach to client service, our clients will quickly see why we are so excited to add her to the team."

Robben practices primarily in the areas of estate planning, estate and gift taxation, fiduciary representation, probate administration, trust formation and administration, and guardianship and conservatorship law. She was elected to the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel (ACTEC), a national organization of approximately 2,600 lawyers elected to membership by demonstrating the highest level of integrity, commitment to the profession, competence, and experience as trust and estate counselors. Before joining Gray Plant Mooty, Robben practiced at Lindquist & Vennum.

Gray Plant Mooty's Trust, Estate and Charitable Planning Practice Group works closely with individuals, families, and their professional advisors, in Minnesota and North Dakota, as well as across the United States, to accomplish their personal, financial, and philanthropic goals. The group's clients include owners of established, privately held, and family-owned businesses; successful entrepreneurs; professional services practitioners; and C-level executives of global Fortune 100 corporations.
