December 6, 2018

MINNEAPOLIS (Dec. 6, 2018) — Gray Plant Mooty Co-Managing Officer and Principal Attorney Sarah Duniway has been recognized for her leadership efforts by two Minnesota-based publications. Duniway is named one of 100 People to Know for 2019 and one of 500 Minnesota Most Powerful Business Leaders for 2018.

Duniway is lauded in the December 2018 Twin Cities Business magazine's 2019 People to Know list for her leadership role in advancing the firm's diversity initiatives, especially in the area of employee demographics. It was noted that, for example, during the firm's 150th anniversary year in 2016, 21 of the 26 attorneys hired were female.

In the Minnesota 500 list of business leaders, Duniway is praised for helping organizations and individuals advance. This inaugural ranking was created by Greenspring Media, publisher of Minnesota Monthly and other magazines.

"I am honored and humbled to be recognized by these two Minnesota publications," said Sarah Duniway. "I am privileged to be included with others who have made positive contributions to our society and our communities. It is particularly rewarding to be honored alongside so many Gray Plant Mooty clients."

Duniway is a longtime attorney who has expertise in the laws governing nonprofits. She is a member of the Health Law and Nonprofits Practice Group, based in Minneapolis but serving clients locally, regionally, and nationally.

"These honors are well deserved and it is my pleasure to serve alongside Sarah Duniway," said Co-Managing Officer and Principal Attorney Charles Maier. "Sarah is well respected for her positive impact, influence, service, and expertise in the legal profession."
