Bansari Amin is a dedicated intellectual property attorney with a strong background in trademark and copyright law. She has experience handling a wide range of IP matters, including:

- Trademark prosecution and clearance: Conducting searches, preparing and filing applications, responding to office actions, and monitoring brand portfolios.
- Copyright infringement and licensing: Advising clients on copyright ownership, enforcement, licensing and platform liability.
- International IP strategy and management: Assisting with global trademark and copyright due diligence, protection, maintenance and enforcement.

Prior to joining Lathrop GPM, Bansari gained valuable experience at an international law firm, where she worked on complex IP and commercial matters for multinational clients across various industries. She is committed to providing exceptional legal services and achieving optimal results for her clients.
