“Most people I’ve met who work in health care entered the profession for the noblest of purposes—they want to cure disease, develop new therapies and educate the next generation of practitioners. By helping them understand how to navigate their way through the complex regulatory system that governs their operations, I do a small part to free up their time and attention to concentrate on what compelled them to get into the field in the first place.” Jesse Berg’s keen interest in the U.S. healthcare system drives his dedication to improving it for providers, payers and consumers alike.

As a health care regulatory lawyer, Jesse Berg provides legal counsel to a vast and diverse array of health care providers and other organizations that play a role in health care delivery, payment and policy. He strives to distill the complex into something easily understandable. Much of Jesse’s practice involves solving tough regulatory challenges. He aims to help organizations balance risk in a regulatory environment that offers few black-and-white answers. Instead, it forces people to primarily work in shades of gray.

Compliance and Reimbursement

Jesse's counsel covers a wide range of services and compliance requirements. He has deep experience in advising Part A providers and Part B suppliers on complex billing and reimbursement issues, enrollment and participation and program integrity matters.

Examples include the following:

- Physician and non-physician billing, such as incident-to, split shared, billing for teaching physician services and addressing GME requirements.
- Specialty and ancillary services reimbursement (e.g., anesthesia, freestanding and provider-based diagnostic/therapeutic billing and supervision, global surgery package, mental health, etc.).
- Complex payment systems, such as hospital prospective payment (e.g., outpatient unbundling, 72-hour rule), 340B drug program, cost reporting, transplant reimbursement and clinical lab/ PAMA, "shell" lab rule; similar guidance for other PPS providers (HHA, SNF, etc.).

- Assisting providers/suppliers to comply with conditions of participation/coverage, such as DMEPOS and IDTF standards, ASC conditions for coverage, hospital and hospice conditions of participation and CLIA matters; Jesse has also advised on various accreditation standards.
- Regulatory matters associated with provider development of joint ventures, such as cost reporting issues associated with hospital-owning subsidiary suppliers and compliance with provider-based regulations for co-located hospital/physician arrangements.
- CMS initiatives, such as the Quality Payment Program's MIPS and APM pathways and various CMMI demonstration projects.
- Medicare/Medicaid enrollment and revalidation issues, such as advising on complex CMS-855 questions and addressing Medicaid waiver (e.g., home and community-based services) programs.
- Self-disclosure options, such as OIG's Self-Disclosure Protocol and CMS Self-Referral Disclosure Protocol, 60-day overpayment regulation and various other issues associated with conditions of payment and refunds (such as Medicaid and commercial payor refunds).

Stark Law, Anti-kickback Statute and Other Fraud and Abuse

As a seasoned health care attorney, Jesse provides comprehensive counsel on the Stark Law, Anti-kickback Statute and similar federal and state fraud and abuse laws, including the Civil Monetary Penalties Law, EKRA, the Anti-Markup Rule and a diverse array of state-specific fee splitting, patient brokering and related restrictions.

Examples of his work include advising on health care system/physician relationships, structuring physician compensation arrangements, both for group practices and tax-exempt organizations, counseling on issues of fair market value and commercial reasonableness and structuring bonus pools, incentive programs, outcomes-based compensation, productivity-driven arrangements and shared savings arrangements. He also advises providers on structuring patient incentive programs that comply with beneficiary inducement prohibitions. With experience in state-specific self-referral, fee-splitting and anti-kickback laws, particularly for franchised healthcare businesses operating nationally, he offers critical insights into multi-jurisdictional compliance.

Antitrust

Jesse counsels clients on compliance with antitrust laws, including issues that can arise in the context of negotiating payor agreements, analyzing competitive impacts of transactions on relevant product and geographic markets, advising on pre-consummation information exchange and Hart Scott Rodino matters and counseling on issues of clinical and financial integration between competitors and collaborating within Accountable Care Organizations and other outcomes-based models in a manner that complies with antitrust guidelines.

Before joining the firm, Jesse served as assistant attorney general in the Health Care and Antitrust Division of the Minnesota Attorney General's Office, where he focused on regulatory enforcement and provided legal counsel to state agencies, including the Minnesota Department of Health.

Litigation Support, Investigations and Negotiations

Experienced in litigation and investigations related to alleged regulatory violations across the healthcare sector, Jesse regularly advises clients on complex cases. Examples of his work include advising physician owners alleged to have improperly allocated profit shares and productivity bonuses in violation of Stark Law group practice payment regulations, clinical labs facing allegations of non-compliance with CLIA proficiency testing regulations, ASCs defending compensation structures under the Anti-Kickback Statute and False Claims Act, hospitals involved in disputes over whether physician compensation is consistent with fair market value and did not take into account the volume or value of referrals, working with hospitals and physician groups on compliance with billing rules in the areas of outpatient unbundling, transplant services and cost reporting and leasing arrangements that allegedly involved per-click or percentage-based payment terms.

Mergers and Acquisitions

Jesse further offers legal support in structuring physician compensation for group practices and nonprofit organizations, advising on fair market value and structuring collaborations, joint ventures and other financial arrangements to maximize the likelihood of business success while complying with regulatory guidelines. He has considerable experience working with valuation firms in developing and negotiating health care transactions. He also aids health care organizations in understanding and addressing potential antitrust risks associated with mergers and various forms of joint ventures.

In addition, Jesse supports clients with the negotiations of and document drafting related to a wide range of transactions, including equity and contractual joint ventures, specialty service line agreements (e.g., oncology, transplant and cardiovascular), professional service agreements and coverage agreements, management and co-management arrangements, under arrangement contracts, purchased test arrangements, gainsharing or shared savings programs, recruitment agreements, equipment and space leases, EHR arrangements, data use agreements and research contracts.

Privacy and Security Compliance

Jesse offers strategic guidance on federal and state privacy compliance, including HIPAA, FERPA, Part 2 Substance Use Disorder, the Common Rule and diverse state privacy regulations. Notable experience includes developing the "Foundations in Privacy Toolkit" for the Minnesota Department of Health to help providers navigate intersecting and competing privacy laws. He advises covered entities and business associates on HIPAA Security and Privacy Rule compliance, from risk assessment to managing multi-state breach responses. He is skilled in nuanced HIPAA topics, including hybrid entities, research data compliance, marketing and fundraising, limited data sets and de-identification.

Experience

- Securing approval for the first multi-specialty joint venture authorized by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Inspector General in an Anti-Kickback Statute Advisory Opinion.
- Advising on co-location of hospital-based and freestanding clinics within the same physical structure, securing Medicare/Medicaid enrollment for various clinics within the building, advising on state licensure matters, CLIA and accreditation issues, creating various support agreements under which clinics shared inputs, developing billing and reimbursement guidelines for use by co-located providers and working with state and federal regulators to secure necessary approvals.
- Assessing the arguments of qui tam relations within the framework of a False Claims Act complaint that alleges Stark Law violations related to profit-sharing formulas and productivity-based physician compensation, preparing compelling arguments to aid the client in defending against the claims and resolving the complaint.

- Helping providers address regulatory inquiries and investigations related to alleged fraud and abuse, Stark Law violations, CLIA proficiency testing, HIPAA breaches, Medicare/Medicaid enrollment issues and matters involving overpayments and self-disclosure.
 - Collaborating with clients to manage substantial HIPAA breaches, providing guidance on immediate remediation measures and best practices for ongoing compliance, addressing reporting requirements and negotiating resolutions.
 - Supporting providers and suppliers of assorted sizes in adhering to Medicare and Medicaid regulations, such as provider-based rules, independent diagnostic testing facility standards, durable medical equipment supplier requirements, anti-markup regulations, CLIA compliance and billing, coding and payment standards.
 - Advising franchisors on the corporate practice of medicine in many states and regularly consulting on state licensure, the scope of practice and professional firm matters, including chiropractic, physical therapy, medicine, nursing, pharmacy, urgent care, imaging, telehealth, travel clinic, home care (medical and non-medical) acupuncture and general wellness.
