Kate Nolen co-chairs the firm's Pro Bono Committee, serving to organize and support the firm's commitment to pro bono and community service. She combines the passions and talents of the firm's attorneys with the vast pro bono opportunities available within the firm's various office locations. Kate also coordinates in-house training on a wide range of topics so that the firm's attorneys are fully educated and prepared to handle all of their pro bono matters.

She also handles some of the firm's juvenile appointments, representing both parents and children in family court.

Prior to joining the firm, Kate was the Director of Legal Services at Jackson County CASA, a non-profit organization that represents the best interests of children in the family court system. At CASA, she managed the legal department and served as Guardian ad Litem on an array of family court cases. She also grew the volunteer attorney program through recruitment and training to increase the organization's capacity, making them able to serve more children.
